

Sheriff May Arrest Clearfield County Slackers Tonight

Thus Far There Are Only Two Men In Whole County Who It Is Believed Have Not Filled Out Their Cards

BOTH ALLEGED SLACKERS ARE AMERICANS

Yesterday was the last day for conscription registration in Clearfield county and during the day several laggard patriots presented themselves before the Registration Board and had their names properly placed upon the roll of honor.

When the Sheriff's office closed last night the last chance for registration under the law closed and now the fellow between the ages of 21 and 31 whose name is not on the registration list will find that he is up against a proposition that he failed to reckon with thus far, but will soon be forced to enroll on the books of Clearfield county but his particular book will be styled the "Jail Record."

Sheriff Ira C. McCloskey received the following telegram from Governor Brumbaugh this morning:

Harrisburg, June 11.—Washington advises that quotas are to be assigned to the several states in proportion to their population as determined by the Bureau of the census and not in proportion to the registration.

The result is that every person who has failed to register is seriously increasing the burden of those who have registered. Ample notice and every opportunity has now been given and there is no longer any argument upon which the conduct of non-registrants can be condoned. The period of leniency has now passed. Attention is invited to paragraph sixteen of the regulation. It is requested that every effort be now made to detect and arrest persons subject to registration who have not registered and to bring each case promptly to the attention of the nearest representative of the Department of Justice.

Wide publicity should be given to the effect of non-registrants increasing the burden of those who have registered. Care should be taken that the lists prescribed in paragraph thirty-nine are promptly posted and all registrants should be asked to assist in bringing non-registrants to the attention of the police. Summarization reports of registration from the various boards should be compared with estimates of Census Bureau and an effort should be concentrated on these districts where discrepancy between registration and estimates seems greatest. In case of doubt as to age of person who has not registered detailed records of the political organizations and other local records should be consulted and date may be obtained from the Bureau of Census.

The purpose of this telegram is to inaugurate from tomorrow a vigorous aggressive and effective enforcement of the penal clauses of the selective service laws against all who have by their failure or refusal to register brought themselves under those provisions.

The Department of Justice is sending today similar advice to United States Attorney's marshalls with instructions to release on their own recognizances all persons arrested by Marshall or Deputy Marshall or by State, County and Municipal police officers and turned over to them who promptly register under the terms of paragraph forty, registration regulations. The Secretary of construes section five of the selective service law as requiring compulsory registration by the officer making the arrest of each arrested person immediately upon his conviction. Please give notice to all who have any duty enjoined upon them in connection with the enforcement of the penal clauses of the law and particularly to the State, County and Municipal police named in paragraph sixteen of the regulations.

FRANK G. SWEENEY
For Governor Brumbaugh

To the lasting credit of Clearfield county let it be said that so far as it is possible to determine at this time there are but two cases in the county of failure to comply with the regulations of the registration law. Sheriff McCloskey has the names of these two alleged "slackers" and they will no doubt be arrested and brought to jail here before this is presented to our readers, as the Sheriff is deter-

MILLIONS IN NEW STATE REVENUE

Direct Inheritance Tax Bill Is Now In Hands of Brumbaugh Who Will Sign the Measure

COUNTY OFFICER COLLECTS

Harrisburg, Pa., June 12.—In passing finally and sending to the governor the Woodward bill providing a direct inheritance tax of $2 on every $100 worth of the clear value of an estate, the legislature took a decisive step towards the raising of new revenues. It is one of the biggest revenue-raisers put through in a score of years.

Reports as to what will reach the commonwealth's coffers through this Woodward bill do not agree. On the contrary, they are as far apart almost as the poles. Legislators in urging favorable action on the measure said that as much as $5,000,000 a year will be realized. Certain state officers claim that the act would mean $10,000,000 additional revenue, while there are a few who say that almost immediately $15,000,000 a year will be created and that when the act begins to operate smoothly over $20,000,000 brand new revenue will begin to make its way in the direction of the state treasury.

The bill was amended in the senate to allow the auditor general to employ a resident attorney in counties having a population of 100,000 and less than 500,000 to sue for the recovery of the tax. In counties having a population of 500,000 or more additional resident lawyers can be named to protect the interest of the commonwealth in all matters relating to the enforcement of the law. The compensation would be fixed by the auditor general.

Every Estate Affected.
The tax of $2 on every $100 of clear value of an estate directly devised will be collected as the following provisions of the bill provide:

"That all estates, real, personal and mixed of every kind whatsoever, situated within this commonwealth, whether the person dying seized thereof be domiciled within or without this commonwealth, and all such estates situated in any other state, territory or country, when the person dying seized thereof shall have his domicile within this commonwealth, passing from any person who may be seized or possessed of such estates, either by will or under the intestate laws of this commonwealth, or any part of such estates or interests therein transferred by deed, bargain or sale, made or intended to take effect in possession or enjoyment after the death of the grantor or bargainor to or for the use of father, mother, husband or wife, child or grandchild, or to any person who is a descendant of a former husband or wife, or the wife or widow of the son of a person dying seized or possessed thereof, or to legally adopted children, are hereby made subject to a tax of $2 on every $100 of the clear value of such estates, and at the same rate for a less amount to be paid for the use of the commonwealth."

"The tax hereinafore provided is to be imposed on any estate passing from the mother of an illegitimate child, or from any person of whom the mother is a legal descendant, to such illegitimate child his wife or widow. Such tax also applies to any estate passing from an illegitimate child to his mother."

System of Collection.

The registers of wills of the various counties would be the agents of the commonwealth for the collection of the tax and would work under the direction of the auditor general. The register of wills of the county in which letters testamentary or of administration are granted would, when the occasion requires, appoint appraisers to fix the value of estates. A person dissatisfied with an appraisal could appeal to the orphan's court.

If the tax is paid within three months after the death of the decedent, a discount of 5 per cent would be allowed. If the tax is not paid within a year after death a penalty of 12 per cent a year would be added. The executor, administrator or trustee paying any legacy or share in the distribution of any estate would deduct the tax on the sum paid. If the legacy delivered is not money, the officer in charge of the estate would demand payment of the tax from the person receiving the bequest. Where the legatee refused to pay the tax, the article would be sold at public sale.

When a bequest would take effect after the expiration of one or more life estates or a period of years, the tax would not be payable or interest begin until the person liable for the tax would come into actual possession of the property. The tax would be assessed on the value of the estate at the time possession would accrue to the owner, but he could, if he desired, pay prior to getting possession. The tax on real estate would remain a lien on the property until paid.

LESS THAN TEN MILLION MEN REGISTERED

Census Bureau Did Not Take Into Account 600,000 Already Serving In The Military

ABOUT 1000 WILL BE SLACKER'S

By Webb Miller

Washington, June 12.—Total registration for selective service will be approximately 9,250,000 according to revised figures given out today by Provost Marshal General Crowder. This number is about one million below the original census estimate. The revision of figures was made by the Provost General's office when it realized that it used census figures not taking into account the fact that nearly 600,000 men of the eligible age are already in the service in the regular army, national guard, navy and marine corps. Another factor in the revision was the belated realization that Census Bureau's estimate—made previous to the war—did not take into account the fact that during the past three years immigration has practically stopped. Another reason is that there are probably a thousand or more slackers who have not registered. The revised figures, however, are far below the first expectations.

AUTO OWNERS OBJECT TO NEW CODE

Proposed Increased License Fee Decidedly Unpopular Among Army of Auto Owners

MANY AUTO MEASURES ARE UP

Harrisburg, Pa., June 12.—By a vote of twenty-six to ten, the Buckman automobile bill went through the senate last week and is now before the house for concurrence. Its success in the lower branch is hardly possible unless the amendments inserted by the senate are dropped. These amendments to which automobile associations all over the state have filed protests deal with the cost of licenses. The fee on all high-priced cars has been increased over 50 per cent.

Those urging the amendments claim that the men protesting are pursuing a short-sighted policy. It is their contention that inasmuch as the money collected on auto licenses is to be used for the repair and construction of roads, owners of machines will be more than reimbursed for the increased fee by a saving in tires.

Senator Buckman had the bill hurried through the senate in order that no time should be lost in the fight to eliminate the changes made. The motor organizations of the state want every amendment to the bill stricken out, so that it will be in the shape agreed upon between legislative leaders, motorists and the state highway department. Senator Buckman is none too sanguine about the passage of the measure, however.

The bill abolishes all existing auto laws and if it does not pass, conditions will remain exactly as they are under the present act. With this idea in mind Senator Buckman introduced a bit of emergency legislation in the shape of an amendment to the section of the present act relating to front lights on autos. He would amend this so that no lights would throw a ray higher than forty-two inches from the ground at a distance of 75 feet from the auto.

Is Emergency Bill.

A new bill affecting the auto business has been introduced by Senator Edward W. Patton, of Philadelphia. This measure provides that after January 1 next no person could operate a public garage or auto repair shop without obtaining first an annual license from the state highway commissioner at a cost of $2. The revenue would be used for highway improvement. Annual reports would have to be made to the commissioner showing the number of autos handled for storage, repair and alteration and provision also is made for the public sale of vehicles where the owner has failed to pay for storage or repairs six months after the amount was due.

A resolution calling on the state highway department to "stop construction of 'ferrying' boulevards" and instead to build roads to facilitate movement of agricultural products to towns was presented by Mr. Millard, Armstrong, in the house. Mr. Walter Franklin, objected to its consideration and it went over.

War New Highways.

When a batch of bills creating new state highways came up one day last week an attempt was made to have them sent back to committees, probably never to see the light of day again. Country members made vigorous objection to this and succeeded in passing the bills on second reading.

It is doubtful if any of these bills will ever reach the governor. Both the senate and house highway committees have an understanding to create no new state highways unless the prospects for more revenues become more favorable. In this connection the chairman of these committees point out that of the 10,000 miles of state highway created by the Sprout act, less than 2500 miles of that roadways have been permanently improved.

The only reason the bills ever got out of committee was due to the absence of Representative Spangler, chairman of the house committee on public roads and highways. Mr. Spangler was away at Fort Niagara training for duty and the acting chairman permitted all bills to come out. Spangler returned to Harrisburg and endeavored to send them back, but failed in this attempt by a narrow margin. The vote mainly indicated, however, that the opposition is sufficiently strong to block the measure from reaching the governor.

A resolution proposing that the members of the legislature be paid $100 final $100 of salary due them in liberty bonds instead of cash stirred up more trouble in the house of representatives one morning last week than it has seen in many days. I brought Representative Maurer, the Reading Socialist, to his feet to file a protest and declare that if he wanted to buy a bond he'd buy it, but he wouldn't buy it on the subscription system. Many members more or less audibly

Pittsburg Noon Peace Meeting Not Held

Delegates Found Doors of Academy Theatre Locked to Them

(By United Press)
Pittsburgh, June 12.—People who went to the Academy theatre at noon today to the "peace meeting" scheduled by the "radicals" attending the 44th Annual convention of Charities and Corrections found the doors locked. Leaders of the convention at the William Penn hotel when asked regarding the meeting that that it was to be held at three o'clock. "Misunderstanding of the fact that Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo spoke at noon" was held to have caused the confusion. Prof Scott Nearing was slated to make the principal address attacking William H. Taft's exposition of a plan for an after the war peace enforcement. Anti-conscription literature was handed out today by the convention delegates. Police and justice department agents are priming for business but they express belief that the meeting would probably be "kept within the law."

"I visited nine different divisions of regiments and talked to 40,000 men and I believe that I can talk with authority when I say that the soldiers do not consider a separate peace."

A NAVY WINDOW

This week has been set apart by the recruiting authorities as navy or marine week and a special drive is being made all over the country for the four thousand enlistments needed to fill up the quota for the United States marines, Uncle Sam's "Soldiers of the Sea" and admitted to be the finest and best equipped body of fighting men in the world.

Flegal's store carries a display window demonstrating this fact and calling attention to the navy's needs. The window is appropriately decorated and contains pictures of naval scenes well worth seeing. Drop down that way and look it over.

NEBRASKA PROUD OF ITS FIFTY YEARS WORK

Begins Today to Celebrate Success Attained in Its 50 Years of Enjoyment of Statehood

LARGEST PRODUCER OF WHEAT

Lincoln, Neb. June 12.—Fifty years! All that the rounding out of half a century of progress and development, of building and expansion, of growth in population and business, of gains attained and untold millions of work performed and problems solved, of ideas gained and problems solved, of things done means to a state is what Nebraska, admitted to the Union fifty years ago, will celebrate here during the three days beginning today.

Student bodies and civic organizations throughout Nebraska have been holding celebrations this spring in honor of the golden jubilee. The official semi-centennial celebration, directed by the Nebraska State Historical society, was begun last October with exercises and pageants in Omaha. The exercises and festivities to be held in the capital this week will conclude the celebration.

It is regarded as fitting that the state which will be called upon in this year of war to furnish foodstuffs for hundreds of thousands outside her own borders should celebrate the agricultural development and the industrial prosperity that enables her to do more than her share in supplying the sinews of war.

Most of the present Nebraska, and much more on the north, was acquired from France by treaty, ceding Louisiana in 1803. It became a portion of the territory of Louisiana in 1805, and a part of the Indian territory in 1834.

The territory of Nebraska was organized by act of Congress in 1854 and the first territorial legislature convened at Omaha the following year. In 1864 Congress passed an act to enable the people to form a state government. A constitution was framed by a convention that met in February 1866, and was ratified by vote of the people in June of the same year. On March 1, 1867, the new state was admitted to the Union, by proclamation of the President.

One of the first official acts of the new state government was to remove the capital from Omaha to a point in Lancaster county. It was decided to call the capital city Lincoln, in honor of resident Lincoln. Four years later saw the opening of the state university in the new city.

Nebraska, at the time of her admission to Statehood, consisted for the most part of a vast area of undeveloped land, with settlements few and far between, and a total population of less than that now contained in many of her counties. The building of the United Pacific railroad in 1869, followed by the construction of numerous other lines in the two decades following proved the greatest single factor in the development of the new state.

The semicentennial finds Nebraska dotted with hundreds of flourishing cities, towns and villages. Omaha, the metropolis, boasts of a population of 150,000 according to the last Federal census, and since increased to near the 200,000 mark by the annexation of suburbs. The last Federal census gave the entire state a population of 1,192,214, an increase of 11.8 per cent. in 10 years.

Last year Nebraska produced the largest wheat crop of any state of the union, with the single exception of Kansas. In corn production her record was eclipsed only by those of Illinois and Iowa. In the production of oats she also occupied third place.

TUESDAY EVENING, JUNE 12, 1917

Leigh Mitchell Hodges writing under the name of The Optimist in the North American has a knack of making us look on the very brightest side of life. His contribution for today is on behalf of our most wonderful military organization, the United States Marine Corps. It follows:

I met him in a country trolley the other day—one of those "have-you-a-match?" acquaintances. He was a fine looking fellow, twenty-five, I should say, and as unspoiled as a young oak.

"The fields look fine, don't they?" he said, and I assented.

"Must be a rich farming country around here," he continued.

"So you're a stranger?" I ventured.

"Yes, I'm from the west, from Colorado."

"Here on business?"

"Yes."

A curious half-twinkle lit up his eye as he said this. His business was none of my business, yet I couldn't help pressing him a bit further.

"Are you a traveling salesman?" I asked.

Well, yes, you might call me that. I've just joined an organization that has been in business some time, and fairly successful. It was started here in your part of the country and gradually spread west. I suppose the firm has the largest number of customers of any ever formed. It deals in insurance."

"Life or fire?"

"Life," he replied, and that twinkle seemed to have grown to about three-quarters! I confess he had me guessing. At the same time, it seemed wise to change the topic, for it's not always safe to give a life insurance man too much rope. He may hang you on his line before you can get away!

"Are you insured?" he asked.

I planned to shock him. Without stopping for breath I reeled off the names of the several companies that have given me odds on the date of my earthly departure. And when I finished, he said, calmly, "I think you've forgotten to name the most important one."

"I've named them all," I said.

"I think not," he said, "I think you've failed to name the most reliable one in the lot. You are an American citizen, aren't you?"

"Of course I am."

"Then you are insured in the best company on earth. Of course, there are some things about its management you may not like, but there's no other insurance against unfair treatment, unjust laws, and derivation of rights that equals it."

I looked at him, amazed. He was speaking so seriously and he seemed so young. And in all my thoughts about my native land, I never once had glimpsed this.

"I guess you're right," I said. "I KNOW you're right. But in what capacity do you represent this company which already has insured so many millions against many forms of living death and now is trying to help insure other millions in the same way?"

He pulled out a leather wallet and took from it a card. On it was his name—a good old-time American name—and down in the lower left corner "United States Marine Corps."

"There's a rival company over in Europe that's trying to get some of our business—on a different basis," he said. The twinkle was full-grown now.

"I'm on my way to help show them it isn't easy business to get," he said. "I'd hate to see your policy and mine lapse!"

And just then he came to his getting-off place.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—
A PRINCESS
SET FREE

Ho Crept Up.

[Adapted from Grimm's Fairy Tales.]

Two eager children waited for daddy to come home and begin the bedtime story for them. "There were once four skillful boys who needed only the chance to put their knowledge to use. Not long after they had learned their trades there was great excitement in their country. The king's daughter had been carried off by a mighty dragon. The king mourned her, and gave it out that whoever brought her back should have her for a wife.

"Here is a chance for us!" said the four clever boys. "Let's see what we can do for the king's daughter."

"I will soon find out where she is," said the star gazer. And he looked into his mysterious glass.

"Soon he cried out, 'I see her afar off! She is sitting upon a huge rock in the sea, and the dragon is close beside her guarding her!'

"Then the star gazer went to the king and asked for a ship for himself and his brothers. And they sailed till they came to the right place. They found the princess sitting on the rock with the dragon's head in her lap, while the beast himself slept. 'I dare not shoot him lest I also kill the princess,' said the young hunter.

"Let me try my skill," said another brother, who knew sleight of hand tricks. And he crept up and stole the princess from under the dragon so gently that the beast kept right on snoring.

"Then away they bore the princess in their boat light as air with the joy of being free. But soon the dragon came roaring through the air to carry her off again. The young hunter drew his bow and shot the dragon right through the heart. Still they were not yet safe, for the dragon was of such great weight that when he fell from the sea he upset the boat. They all had to swim in the open sea on a few planks that fell out of the boat.

"The skillful tailor gathered the pieces of the boat and soon had them all tacked together again. Then they roved to the big ship and sailed home.

"There was great joy at the castle, but nobody could decide which brother should have the princess, so clever were they all.

"While the boys wrangled and disputed about the wedding the king spoke up and said that the princess already loved somebody and that if they would give her up he would see that they each had half a kingdom. The boys agreed to this, and spent the rest of their lives living on their estates with their father, while the princess' sweetheart married her and took much better care of her than ever a dragon could have," daddy ended.

TRENCH TALES

London, June 12.—An instance of German "Kaiser hatred" was described by a wounded engineer.

"In a house in one of the villages we captured a few days ago, that had evidently been some kind of a headquarters, there was a large picture of the Kaiser on the wall. Several German prisoners were brought in the house. One of them on seeing the Kaiser's picture spat on it. We asked him why he spat on the picture, and if he was a Saxon.

"No Englishman," he replied. "I'm a Prussian, but I'm fed up, and he's the devil who started this."

IF BACK HURTS
BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush your kidneys occasionally if you eat meat regularly.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding; get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effective lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

A Slice of Bread

"Many a Mickle Makes a Muckle"

A single slice of bread seems an unimportant thing. In many households one or more slices of bread daily are thrown away and not used for human food. Sometimes stale quarter or half loaves are thrown out.

Yet one good-sized slice of bread—such as a child likes to cut—weighs an ounce. It contains almost three-quarters of an ounce of flour's 20,000,000 homes wastes on the average only one such slice of bread a day, the country is throwing away daily over 14,000,000 ounces of flour—over $75,000,000 pounds, or enough flour for over a million one-pound loaves a day. For a full year at this rate there would be a waste of over 319,000,000 pounds of flour—1,500,000 barrels of flour—enough to make 365,000,000 loaves.

As it takes 4½ bushels of wheat to make a barrel of ordinary flour, this waste would represent the flour from over 7,000,000 bushels of wheat.

Fourteen and nine-tenths bushels of wheat on the average are raised per acre. It would take the fruit of some 470,000 acres just to provide a single slice of bread to be wasted daily in every home.

To produce this much flour calls for an army of farmers, railway men, flour-mill people. To get the flour to the consumer calls for many of coal.

But, someone says, a full slice of bread is not wasted in every home. Very well—make it a daily slice for every four or even ten or every thirty homes—make it a weekly or monthly slice in every home—make the wasted slice thinner. The waste of flour involved is still appalling.

Any waste of bread is declared to be inexcusable when there are so many ways of using stale bread to cook delicious dishes.

GRAECO-ROMAN CORSO
A NEW ATTRACTION

John Robinson's circus, the largest and most multifarious amusement enterprise ever created since the big American tented show first came into vogue, will exhibit in Clearfield on Saturday, June 16th.

This year's newly added Graeco Roman Corso, necessitating a quarter mile track, furnishes its full quota in the presentation of unusual deeds of human achievement, in speed contests, broad swum tournaments, Olympian games and pastimes.

Four circus rings overflowing with over-changing surprises ranging from famous English derby day scenes, to herds of dancing, comedy playing musical and military elephants.

There are pageants refulgent in all the extravagance of brocaded silks and satins, beautiful allegorical floats, and richly caparisoned elephants, camels, and blooded horses to add variety.

There will be fifty of the most famous male and female gymnastic stars of America and Europe flying from end to end of the mammoth arena. There will be widely contrasted feats of horsemanship, fifty clowns, numbering some of the world's most famous jesters, seventy solo acrobats, and the famous original Dixie Land Jass band, there will be many examples demonstrating supreme achievements in animal training. There will be magnificent poses by snow white equines as motionless as marble statues, a triple menagerie embracing the most complete and comprehensive animal revue ever assembled, together with hundreds of beautiful horses garnered from the best stables of two continents.

The street parade will leave, the show grounds promptly at ten a. m. on the day of exhibition and is declared to be over one and a half miles in length.

UNABLE TO STRIKE
A LICK, HE SAYS

"It Did Not Take Long For Tanlac To Fix Me Up," He Says

"This Tanlac has made a difference for me to return to work," said N. Lively, a well-known physician employed by Kayser & Altmann, Philadelphia.

"I wasn't working and hadn't been able to strike a lick of work for quite a while," he continued, "but it did not require long for Tanlac to fix me up. My stomach became all disordered. My digestion was bad and I couldn't get any appetite. Most of what I ate caused gas on my stomach and pains. I would become sick at my stomach and remain so for some time. I guess it was nervous dyspepsia that really bothered me most."

"I gradually grew so nervous and so generally rundown in health that I was unfit for anything. I was worn out, tired, and almost lifeless. I had dizzy spells and shortness of breath. I got so I couldn't sleep soundly and I wasn't well rested in the morning. I saw a doctor who told me that just about everything was wrong."

"I decided to give the medicine a trial. I am now glad that I did, because it is just the thing for me. My condition has been wonderfully improved. In fact my stomach is now strong, my appetite and digestion are good. I sleep soundly and I feel like a boy in the morning. Tanlac has done a great work for me, and I recommended it to all my friends."

Tanlac, the famous Master Medicine is sold here by Woodward & McPherson.

"As Cool As A Cucumber"

Yet You Can Prepare A Big Meal With An It Attendant Cooking. This New Oil Burning Range Is One Of The New Inventions To Help The Housewife Get Rid Of The Heat Of Summer Cooking

Don't swelter in your kitchen during the warm days that are coming. Get away from the messy coal stove with its attendant work and dirt. Get one of these new oil ranges installed in your kitchen.

KEROGAS OIL RANGES

The makers say "Burns 400 gallons of air to one gallon of common coal oil." There's a saving in expense. The oil is conducted to the burners in a scientifically correct way that does away with any danger of explosion. The burners are so arranged that the heat is applied to the cooking vessel at the right distance to get the maximum amount of heat from the minimum of fuel.

We have them in the two and three-burner style.

NOTHING BUT GOOD THINGS SAID

If all the good things said about John Robinson's Ten Big shows this season by our exchanges are true and we have no doubt they are, the amusement-goers of Clearfield and its environs can look forward to an unusual treat in the circus line on Saturday, June 16th.

According to reports this will undoubtedly prove the most important circus event in local history. These augmented shows require four trains of double length railroad cars to transport the mammoth aggregation from city to city.

The unusually large number of wild animals in the menagerie and the additional wonderful collection of interesting people and curiosities from many lands in the museum department, make all former circus exhibitions here seem pigmy in comparison.

So, here's to circus day! A bright weather day it is hoped, when the decision to pitch its tents in Clearfield on June 16th will find ample justification in a smashing record turn out. The big street parade will take place at 10 o'clock on the morning of the exhibition.

New York Central Railroad Conductors Narrow Escape From A Bed of Sickness

"I can do a big days work now without getting tired, where before I could hardly drag around and I am glad to recommend Goldine, as it did me a world of good," said James Farrell who holds a responsible position as conductor on the New York Central railroad.

MR. FARRELL WHO LIVES IN CLEARFIELD FURTHER SAID

I suffered from kidney trouble for several years and the doctors said I

times while at work I would have fainting spells and would have to be taken home and would be in bed for two or three days before I could get out again and then I would be so weak I could hardly get around, and I had doctored with nearly every one I knew in town but never got any better.

Some said I had Bright's disease and others said I had pleurisy and I got worse right along.

A friend of mine told me to try Goldine and I got results right off the reel and I could feel my stomach getting stronger every day.

Now I can eat most anything in the eating house and have a good appetite and my kidneys are as strong as iron and I don't have one bit of trouble with them. I can sleep good all night and get up rested and hungry for breakfast.

Goldine is now having enormous sales at Stewart's Drug Store opposite Court House. The Goldine

SAYS BODY IS A POISON FACTORY

Urges everyone to drink a glass of hot water before breakfast

Just as coal, when it burns, leaves behind a certain amount of combustible material in the form of ashes, so the food and drink taken day after day leaves in the alimentary canal a certain amount of indigestible material, which if not completely eliminated from the system each day, becomes food for the millions of bacteria which infest the bowels. From this mass of left-over waste, toxins and ptomaine-like poisons are formed and sucked into the blood.

Men and women who can't get feeling right must begin to take inside baths. Before eating breakfast each morning drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash out of the thirty feet of bowels the previous day's accumulation of poisons and toxins and to keep the entire alimentary canal clean, pure and fresh.

Those who are subject to sick headache, colds, biliousness, constipation, others who wake up with bad taste, foul breath, backache, rheumatic stiffness, or have sour gassy stomach after meals, are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at any drug store, and begin practicing internal sanitation. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on the subject.

Remember inside bathing is more important than outside bathing, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing poor health, while the bowel pores do. Just as soap and hot water cleanses, sweetens and freshens the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.

WAR SESSION IN MARYLAND

Annapolis, Md., June 12.—Called together by proclamation of Governor Harrington, the members of the Maryland legislature met in special session today to take measures to enable Maryland to cope with conditions arising from the war. The most of the measures to be considered and acted upon have been approved by the state preparedness commission. Among other things the measures call for the creation of a state council of defense, Maryland state guards, a state constabulary, organization of firemen as county guards, suspension of legal proceedings, judgments, etc., during the period of the war, relief of soldiers' dependent relatives, provision for taking soldiers' vote at elections and militia law amendments. It is further proposed to appropriate $1,000,000 or more, if necessary, to carry out the state defense plans.

Lemons Whiten and Beautify the Skin! Make Cheap Lotion

The juice of two fresh lemons strained into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white makes a whole quart of the most remarkable lemon skin beautifier at about the cost one must pay for a small jar of the ordinary cold cream. Care should be taken to strain the lemon juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. Every woman knows that lemon juice is used to bleach and remove such blemishes as freckles, sallowness and tan and is the ideal skin softener, smoother and beautifier.

Just try it! Make up a quart of this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion and massage it daily into the face, neck, arms and hands. It should naturally help to whiten, soften, freshen and bring out the hidden roses and beauty of any skin. It is wonderful for rough, red hands.

Your druggist will sell three ounces of orchard white at little cost, and any grocer will supply the lemons.

AMERICANS AT THE FRONT

(By United Press)

London, June 12.—It generally

takes two bullets to stop an American.

Thomas St. Ledger, of Springfield, Mass., so scarlet headed they called him "Red" from the star, was bowled over at Lens but it took a bullet thru his leg to send him to England on a stretcher.

He got that at Vimy Ridge, where the American flag waved in the smoke of battle. St. Ledger served nine years in the 23rd and 3rd United States Infantry. He's hungry for more bayonet work and swears his surrel top will be seen in the thick of it again before peace arrives.

I washed my clothes today and they dried in about 1-2 hours so you know how hot and dry it is here but it is healthy after you get acclimated. My cold is gone, also my catarrh, maybe for good.

How do you like the Progress?

SIMPLE COMMENCEMENT AT

WELLESLEY

(By United Press)

Wellesley, Mass., June 12.—The commencement week exercises which began at Wellesley college today will be Spartan in simplicity, because of the war and the necessity for economy. By unanimous agreement of the girls of the graduating class the senior play, the garden party and other social functions and festivities that are almost as old as the college itself, have been cut out of the program.

Frank Isbell is president and Bobby

Wallace manager of the Wichita team. A slant at the Western league team standing will show how the two old big timers must suffer.

Juries in various cities of Iowa have refused to convict ball players for pastiming on the Sabbath. An effort is to be made to have the Iowa legislature repeal the law prohibiting

Sunday baseball.

Perhaps it is only a coincidence that

Vernon is running backwards in the Pacific coast league race, and that

Fred Snodgrass is playing second base for the team.

No minor league in the country has anything on the Western association in the way of furnishing a tight pennant chase. The eight teams have been racing along with only a hun-

SOLDIERS' LETTERS

The Progress is in receipt of a letter from J. A. Adams, now at Madison Barracks, New York in which he states that he has been receiving The Progress every day and enjoys it very much.

Mr. Adams does not know who is sending it and wants us to express to his benefactor his appreciation.

The following young men of the West Side M. E. Sunday school are now among the boys upholding the honor of the stars and stripes: Bruce A. Robb, Archie Thomas, Miles Thomas, Forest Root, Elmer Cole, Maynard Shaw, Howard Hooven, Ward McCracken, Verne Harry, Lex Miller, James Withrow, Ward Shaffer and Charles Evans.

The following is another letter from Beryl Read, the popular president of C. H. S. senior class. Mr. Read writes a very interesting letter and we are glad to pass them on to his many High school friends:

Company E, 64th Infantry

El Paso, Texas

June 2nd 1917.

Dear Folks at Home:

There is great rejoicing in camp today. We got our mail from Fort Slocum and among it John got a large box of candy and a box of popcorn from C. H. S. English class. I got 6 letters and the pictures which you sent. We also were assigned to our regular company and infantry. This is final and wherever the 64th is sent we go. Had things remained and the 16th stayed here I would probably have been a corporal but the lieutenant who was drilling us left with the 16th. We said that they went to France. We don't know as much of the war as you do. We don't get any papers except old ones or El Paso papers which don't even know we are at war. I see that some papers have the registration list called honor roll. I would call it "slackers defense." If I was back home and know what I know now I would join at once but I do hope our regiment is sent north because the people down here don't think much of a soldier. The national guards who camped here last summer spoiled a uniform

Thus Far There Are Only Two Men In Whole County Who It Is Believed Have Not Filled Out Their Cards

BOTH ALLEGED SLACKERS ARE AMERICANS

Yesterday was the last day for conscription registration in Clearfield county and during the day several laggard patriots presented themselves before the Registration Board and had their names properly placed upon the roll of honor.

When the Sheriff's office closed last night the last chance for registration under the law closed and now the fellow between the ages of 21 and 31 whose name is not on the registration list will find that he is up against a proposition that he failed to reckon with thus far, but will soon be forced to enroll on the books of Clearfield county but his particular book will be styled the "Jail Record."

Sheriff Ira C. McCloskey received the following telegram from Governor Brumbaugh this morning:

Harrisburg, June 11.—Washington advises that quotas are to be assigned to the several states in proportion to their population as determined by the Bureau of the census and not in proportion to the registration.

The result is that every person who has failed to register is seriously increasing the burden of those who have registered. Ample notice and every opportunity has now been given and there is no longer any argument upon which the conduct of non-registrants can be condoned. The period of leniency has now passed. Attention is invited to paragraph sixteen of the regulation. It is requested that every effort be now made to detect and arrest persons subject to registration who have not registered and to bring each case promptly to the attention of the nearest representative of the Department of Justice.

Wide publicity should be given to the effect of non-registrants increasing the burden of those who have registered. Care should be taken that the lists prescribed in paragraph thirty-nine are promptly posted and all registrants should be asked to assist in bringing non-registrants to the attention of the police. Summarization reports of registration from the various boards should be compared with estimates of Census Bureau and an effort should be concentrated on these districts where discrepancy between registration and estimates seems greatest. In case of doubt as to age of person who has not registered detailed records of the political organizations and other local records should be consulted and date may be obtained from the Bureau of Census.

The purpose of this telegram is to inaugurate from tomorrow a vigorous aggressive and effective enforcement of the penal clauses of the selective service laws against all who have by their failure or refusal to register brought themselves under those provisions.

The Department of Justice is sending today similar advice to United States Attorney's marshalls with instructions to release on their own recognizances all persons arrested by Marshall or Deputy Marshall or by State, County and Municipal police officers and turned over to them who promptly register under the terms of paragraph forty, registration regulations. The Secretary of construes section five of the selective service law as requiring compulsory registration by the officer making the arrest of each arrested person immediately upon his conviction. Please give notice to all who have any duty enjoined upon them in connection with the enforcement of the penal clauses of the law and particularly to the State, County and Municipal police named in paragraph sixteen of the regulations.

FRANK G. SWEENEY
For Governor Brumbaugh

To the lasting credit of Clearfield county let it be said that so far as it is possible to determine at this time there are but two cases in the county of failure to comply with the regulations of the registration law. Sheriff McCloskey has the names of these two alleged "slackers" and they will no doubt be arrested and brought to jail here before this is presented to our readers, as the Sheriff is deter-

MILLIONS IN NEW STATE REVENUE

Direct Inheritance Tax Bill Is Now In Hands of Brumbaugh Who Will Sign the Measure

COUNTY OFFICER COLLECTS

Harrisburg, Pa., June 12.—In passing finally and sending to the governor the Woodward bill providing a direct inheritance tax of $2 on every $100 worth of the clear value of an estate, the legislature took a decisive step towards the raising of new revenues. It is one of the biggest revenue-raisers put through in a score of years.

Reports as to what will reach the commonwealth's coffers through this Woodward bill do not agree. On the contrary, they are as far apart almost as the poles. Legislators in urging favorable action on the measure said that as much as $5,000,000 a year will be realized. Certain state officers claim that the act would mean $10,000,000 additional revenue, while there are a few who say that almost immediately $15,000,000 a year will be created and that when the act begins to operate smoothly over $20,000,000 brand new revenue will begin to make its way in the direction of the state treasury.

The bill was amended in the senate to allow the auditor general to employ a resident attorney in counties having a population of 100,000 and less than 500,000 to sue for the recovery of the tax. In counties having a population of 500,000 or more additional resident lawyers can be named to protect the interest of the commonwealth in all matters relating to the enforcement of the law. The compensation would be fixed by the auditor general.

Every Estate Affected.

The tax of $2 on every $100 of clear value of an estate directly devised will be collected as the following provisions of the bill provide:

"That all estates, real, personal and mixed of every kind whatsoever, situated within this commonwealth, whether the person dying seized thereof be domiciled within or without this commonwealth, and all such estates situated in any other state, territory or country, when the person dying seized thereof shall have his domicile within this commonwealth, passing from any person who may be seized or possessed of such estates, either by will or under the intestate laws of this commonwealth, or any part of such estates or interests therein transferred by deed, bargain or sale, made or intended to take effect in possession or enjoyment after the death of the grantor or bargainor to or for the use of father, mother, husband or wife, child or grandchild, or to the use of any child, or to the use of any child of a former husband or wife, or the wife or widow of the son of a person dying seized or possessed thereof, or to the use of any child of a person dying seized or possessed thereof, or to the use of any child of a person dying seized or possessed thereof, shall be subject to a tax of $2 on every $100 of the clear value of such estates, and at the same rate for a less amount, to be paid for the use of the commonwealth."

"The tax hereinafore provided is to be imposed on any estate passing from the mother of an illegitimate child, or from any person of whom the mother is a lineal descendant, to such illegitimate child, his wife or widow. Such tax also applies to any estate passing from an illegitimate child to his mother."

System of Collection.

The registers of wills of the various counties would be the agents of the commonwealth for the collection of the tax and would work under the direction of the auditor general. The register of wills of the county in which letters testamentary or of administration are granted would, when the occasion requires, appoint appraisers to fix the value of estates. A person dissatisfied with an appraisal could appeal to the orphan's court.

If the tax is paid within three months after the death of the decedent, a discount of 5 per cent would be allowed. If the tax is not paid within a year after death a penalty of 12 per cent a year would be added. The executor, administrator or trustee paying any legacy or share in the distribution of any estate would deduct the tax on the sum paid. If the legacy delivered is not money, the officer in charge of the estate would demand payment of the tax from the person receiving the bequest. Where the legatee refused to pay the tax, the article would be sold at public sale. When a bequest would take effect after the expiration of one or more life estates or a period of years, the tax would not be payable or interest begin until the person liable for the tax would come into actual possession of the property. The tax would be assessed on the value of the estate at the time possession would accrue to the owner, but he could, if he desired, pay prior to getting possession. The tax on real estate would remain a lien on the property until paid.

LESS THAN TEN MILLION MEN REGISTERED

Census Bureau Did Not Take Into Account 600,000 Already Serving In The Military

ABOUT 1000 WILL BE SLACKER'S

By Webb Miller

Washington, June 12.—Total registration for selective service will be approximately 9,250,000 according to revised figures given out today by Provost Marshal General Crowder. This number is about one million below the original census estimate. The revision of figures was made by the Provost General's office when it realized that it used census figures not taking into account the fact that nearly 600,000 men of the eligible age are already in the service in the regular army, national guard, navy and marine corps. Another factor in the revision was the belated realization that Census Bureau's estimate—made previous to the war—did not take into account the fact that during the past three years immigration has practically stopped. Another reason is that there are probably a thousand or more slackers who have not registered. The revised figures, however, are far below the first expectations.

AUTO OWNERS OBJECT TO NEW CODE

Proposed Increased License Fee Decidedly Unpopular Among Army of Auto Owners

MANY AUTO MEASURES ARE UP

Harrisburg, Pa., June 12.—By a vote of twenty-six to ten, the Buckman automobile bill went through the senate last week and is now before the house for concurrence. Its success in the lower branch is hardly possible unless the amendments inserted by the senate are dropped. These amendments to which automobile associations all over the state have filed protests deal with the cost of licenses. The fee on all high-priced cars has been increased over 50 per cent.

Those urging the amendments claim that the men protesting are pursuing a short-sighted policy. It is their contention that inasmuch as the money collected on auto licenses is to be used for the repair and construction of roads, owners of machines will be more than reimbursed for the increased fee by a saving in tires.

Senator Buckman had the bill hurried through the senate in order that no time should be lost in the fight to eliminate the changes made. The motor organizations of the state want every amendment to the bill stricken out, so that it will be in the shape agreed upon between legislative leaders, motorists and the state highway department. Senator Buckman is none too sanguine about the passage of the measure, however.

The bill abolishes all existing auto laws and if it does not pass, conditions will remain exactly as they are under the present act. With this idea in mind Senator Buckman introduced a bit of emergency legislation in the shape of an amendment to the section of the present act relating to front lights on autos. He would amend this so that no lights would throw a ray higher than forty-two inches from the ground at a distance of 75 feet from the auto.

Is Emergency Bill.

A new bill affecting the auto business has been introduced by Senator Edward W. Patton, of Philadelphia. This measure provides that after January 1 next no person could operate a public garage or auto repair shop without obtaining first an annual license from the state highway commissioner at a cost of $2. The revenue would be used for highway improvement. Annual reports would have to be made to the commissioner showing the number of autos handled for storage, repair and alteration and provision also is made for the public sale of vehicles where the owner has failed to pay for storage or repairs six months after the amount was due.

A resolution calling on the state highway department to "stop construction of 'ferrying' boulevards" and instead to build roads to facilitate movement of agricultural products to towns was presented by Mr. Millard, Armstrong, in the house. Mr. Walter Franklin, objected to its consideration and it went over.

War New Highways.

When a batch of bills creating new state highways came up one day last week an attempt was made to have them sent back to committees, probably never to see the light of day again. Country members made vigorous objection to this and succeeded in passing the bills on second reading.

It is doubtful if any of these bills will ever reach the governor. Both the senate and house highway committees have an understanding to create no new state highways unless the prospects for more revenues become more favorable. In this connection the chairman of these committees point out that of the 10,000 miles of state highway created by the Sprout act, less than 2500 miles of that roadways have been permanently improved.

The only reason the bills ever got out of committee was due to the absence of Representative Spangler, of York, chairman of the house committee on public roads and highways. Mr. Spangler was away at Fort Niagara training for duty and the acting chairman permitted all bills to come out. Spangler returned to Harrisburg and endeavored to send them back, but failed in this attempt by a narrow margin. The vote mainly indicated, however, that the opposition is sufficiently strong to block the measures from reaching the governor.

A resolution proposing that the members of the legislature be paid $100 final $100 of salary due them in liberty bonds instead of cash stirred up more trouble in the house of representatives one morning last week than it has seen in many days. I brought Representative Maurer, the Reading Socialist, to his feet to file a protest and declare that if he wanted to buy a bond he'd buy it, but he wouldn't buy it on the subscription system. Many members more or less audibly

Delegates Found Doors of Academy Theatre Locked to Them

(By United Press)
Pittsburgh, June 12.—People who went to the Academy theatre at noon today to the "peace meeting" scheduled by the "radicals" attending the 44th Annual convention of Charities and Corrections found the doors locked. Leaders of the convention at the William Penn hotel when asked regarding the meeting that that it was to be held at three o'clock. "Misunderstanding of the fact that Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo spoke at noon" was held to have caused the confusion. Prof Scott Nearing was slated to make the principal address attacking William H. Taft's exposition of a plan for an after the war peace enforcement. Anti-conscription literature was handed out today by the convention delegates. Police and justice department agents are priming for business but they express belief that the meeting would probably be "kept within the law."

New York Editor Finds Russ Soldiers Loyal

Talked to Over 40,000 and None Favor Separate Peace

Petrograd, June 12.—No man in Russia's army dares talk of a separate peace. If he did his comrades would shoot him down declared N. Nachoff, a former New York editor who returned today from the front. "I made a tour of the camps urging an offensive war in behalf of the Workmen's and Soldier's council," he continued. "I visited nine different divisions of regiments and talked to 40,000 men and I believe that I can talk with authority when I say that the soldiers do not consider a separate peace."

NEBRASKA PROUD OF ITS FIFTY YEARS WORK

Begins Today to Celebrate Success Attained in Its 50 Years of Enjoyment of Statehood

LARGEST PRODUCER OF WHEAT

Lincoln, Neb. June 12.—Fifty years of the rounding out of half a century of progress and development, of building and expansion, of growth in population and business, of gains attained and problems solved, of work performed and problems solved, of things done means to a state is what Nebraska, admitted to the Union fifty years ago, will celebrate here during the three days beginning today.

Student bodies and civic organizations throughout Nebraska have been holding celebrations this spring in honor of the golden jubilee. The official semi-centennial celebration, directed by the Nebraska State Historical society, was begun last October with exercises and pageants in Omaha. The exercises and festivities to be held in the capital this week will conclude the celebration.

It is regarded as fitting that the state which will be called upon in this year of war to furnish foodstuffs for hundreds of thousands outside her own borders should celebrate the agricultural development and the industrial prosperity that enables her to do more than her share in supplying the sinews of war.

Most of the present Nebraska, and much more on the north, was acquired from France by treaty, ceding Louisiana in 1803. It became a portion of the territory of Louisiana in 1805, and a part of the Indian territory in 1834.

The territory of Nebraska was organized by act of Congress in 1854 and the first territorial legislature convened at Omaha the following year. In 1864 Congress passed an act to enable the people to form a state government. A constitution was framed by a convention that met in February 1866, and was ratified by vote of the people in June of the same year. On March 1, 1867, the new state was admitted to the Union by proclamation of the President.

One of the first official acts of the new state government was to remove the capital from Omaha to a point in Lancaster county. It was decided to call the capital city Lincoln, in honor of resident Lincoln. Four years later saw the opening of the state university in the new city.

Nebraska, at the time of her admission to Statehood, consisted for the most part of a vast area of undeveloped land, with settlements few and far between, and a total population of less than that now contained in many of her counties. The building of the United Pacific railroad in 1869, followed by the construction of numerous other lines in the two decades following proved the greatest single factor in the development of the new state.

The semicentennial finds Nebraska dotted with hundreds of flourishing cities, towns and villages. Omaha, the metropolis, boasts of a population of 150,000 according to the last Federal census, and since increased to near the 200,000 mark by the annexation of suburbs. The last Federal census gave the entire state a population of 1,192,214, an increase of 11.8 per cent. in 10 years.

Last year Nebraska produced the largest wheat crop of any state of the union, with the single exception of Kansas. In corn production her record was eclipsed only by those of Illinois and Iowa. In the production of oats she also occupied third place.

TUESDAY EVENING, JUNE 12, 1917

Leigh Mitchell Hodges writting under the name of The Optimist in the North American has a knack of making us look on the very brightest side of life. His contribution for today is on behalf of our most wonderful military organization, the United States Marine Corps. It follows:

I met him in a country trolley the other day—one of those "have-you-a-match?" acquaintances. He was a fine looking fellow, twenty-five, I should say, and as unspoiled as a young oak.

"The fields look fine, don't they?" he said, and I assented.

"Must be a rich farming country around here," he continued.

"So you're a stranger?" I ventured.

"Yes, I'm from the west, from Colorado."

"Here on business?"

"Yes."

A curious half-twinkle lit up his eye as he said this. His business was none of my business, yet I couldn't help pressing him a bit further.

"Are you a traveling salesman?" I asked.

Well, yes, you might call me that. I've just joined an organization that has been in business some time, and fairly successful. It was started here in your part of the country and gradually spread west. I suppose the firm has the largest number of customers of any ever formed. It deals in insurance."

"Life or fire?"

"Life," he replied, and that twinkle seemed to have grown to about three-quarters! I confess he had me guessing. At the same time, it seemed wise to change the topic, for it's not always safe to give a life insurance man too much rope. He may hang you on his line before you can get away!

"Are you insured?" he asked.

I planned to shock him. Without stopping for breath I reeled off the names of the several companies that have given me odds on the date of my earthly departure. And when I finished, he said, calmly, "I think you've forgotten to name the most important one."

"I've named them all," I said.

"I think not," he said, "I think you've failed to name the most reliable one in the lot. You are an American citizen, aren't you?"

"Of course I am."

"Then you are insured in the best company on earth. Of course, there are some things about its management you may not like, but there's no other insurance against unfair treatment, unjust laws, and derivation of rights that equals it."

I looked at him, amazed. He was speaking so seriously and he seemed so young. And in all my thoughts about my native land, I never once had glimpsed this.

"I guess you're right," I said. "I KNOW you're right. But in what capacity do you represent this company which already has insured so many millions against many forms of living death and now is trying to help insure other millions in the same way?"

He pulled out a leather wallet and took from it a card. On it was his name—a good old-time American name—and down in the lower left corner "United States Marine Corps."

"There's a rival company over in Europe that's trying to get some of our business—on a different basis," he said. The twinkle was full-grown now.

"I'm on my way to help show them it isn't easy business to get," he said. "I'd hate to see your policy and mine lapse!"

And just then he came to his getting-off place.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—
A PRINCESS
SET FREE

He Crept Up.

[Adapted from Grimm's Fairy Tales.]

Two eager children waited for daddy to come home and begin the bedtime story for them. "There were once four skillful boys who needed only the chance to put their knowledge to use. Not long after they had learned their trades there was great excitement in their country. The king's daughter had been carried off by a mighty dragon. The king mourned her, and gave it out that whoever brought her back should have her for a wife.

"Here is a chance for us!" said the four clever boys. "Let's see what we can do for the king's daughter."

"I will soon find out where she is," said the star gazer. And he looked into his mysterious glass.

"Soon he cried out, 'I see her afar off! She is sitting upon a huge rock in the sea, and the dragon is close beside her guarding her!'

"Then the star gazer went to the king and asked for a ship for himself and his brothers. And they sailed till they came to the right place. They found the princess sitting on the rock with the dragon's head in her lap, while the beast himself slept. 'I dare not shoot him lest I also kill the princess,' said the young hunter.

"Let me try my skill," said another brother, who knew sleight of hand tricks. And he crept up and stole the princess from under the dragon so gently that the beast kept right on snoring.

"Then away they bore the princess in their boat light as air with the joy of being free. But soon the dragon came roaring through the air to carry her off again. The young hunter drew his bow and shot the dragon right through the heart. Still they were not yet safe, for the dragon was of such great weight that when he fell from the sea he upset the boat. They all had to swim in the open sea on a few planks that fell out of the boat.

"The skillful tailor gathered the pieces of the boat and soon had them all tacked together again. Then they rowed to the big ship and sailed home.

"There was great joy at the castle, but nobody could decide which brother should have the princess, so clever were they all.

"While the boys wrangled and disputed about the wedding the king spoke up and said that the princess already loved somebody and that if they would give her up he would see that they each had half a kingdom. The boys agreed to this, and spent the rest of their lives living on their estates with their father, while the princess' sweetheart married her and took much better care of her than ever a dragon could have," daddy ended.

TRENCH TALES

London, June 12.—An instance of German "Kaiser hatred" was described by a wounded engineer.

"In a house in one of the villages we captured a few days ago, that had evidently been some kind of a headquarters, there was a large picture of the Kaiser on the wall. Several German prisoners were brought in the house. One of them on seeing the Kaiser's picture spat on it. We asked him why he spat on the picture, and if he was a Saxon.

"No Englishman," he replied. "I'm a Prussian, but I'm fed up, and he's the devil who started this."

Field Marshal Haig today issued a special order complimenting General Plumer and the army under him for its success the result of which he said would not be appreciated as yet.

MINOR LEAGUE NOTES

New Haven and Worcester are setting the pace in the Eastern league, and a hot pace at that.

The Waco champions certainly are living up to their name in the Texas league pennant scramble.

The South Atlantic league and the North Carolina league have reduced their circuits from six to four clubs.

IF BACK HURTS
BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush your kidneys occasionally if you eat meat regularly.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding; get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effective lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

A Slice of Bread

"Many a Mickle Makes a Muckle"

A single slice of bread seems an unimportant thing. In many households one or more slices of bread daily are thrown away and not used for human food. Sometimes stale quarter or half loaves are thrown out.

Yet one good-sized slice of bread—such as a child likes to cut—weighs an ounce. It contains almost three-quarters of an ounce of flour's 20,000,000 homes wastes on the average only one such slice of bread a day, the country is throwing away daily over 14,000,000 ounces of flour—over $75,000 pounds, or enough flour for over a million one-pound loaves a day. For a full year at this rate there would be a waste of over 319,000,000 pounds of flour—1,500,000 barrels of flour—enough to make 365,000,000 loaves.

As it takes 4½ bushels of wheat to make a barrel of ordinary flour, this waste would represent the flour from over 7,000,000 bushels of wheat.

Fourteen and nine-tenths bushels of wheat on the average are raised per acre. It would take the fruit of some 470,000 acres just to provide a single slice of bread to be wasted daily in every home.

To produce this much flour calls for an army of farmers, railway men, flour-mill people. To get the flour to the consumer calls for many of coal.

But, someone says, a full slice of bread is not wasted in every home. Very well—make it a daily slice for every four or even ten or every thirty homes—make it a weekly or monthly slice in every home—make the wasted slice thinner. The waste of flour involved is still appalling.

Any waste of bread is declared to be inexcusable when there are so many ways of using stale bread to cook delicious dishes.

GRAECO-ROMAN CORSO
A NEW ATTRACTION

John Robinson's circus, the largest and most multifarious amusement enterprise ever created since the big American tented show first came into vogue, will exhibit in Clearfield on Saturday, June 16th.

This year's newly added Graeco Roman Corso, necessitating a quarter mile track, furnishes its full quota in the presentation of unusual deeds of human achievement, in speed contests, broad swum tournaments, Olympian games and pastimes.

Four circus rings overflowing with over-changing surprises ranging from famous English derby day scenes, to herds of dancing, comedy playing musical and military elephants.

There are pageants refulgent in all the extravagance of brocaded silks and satins, beautiful allegorical floats, and richly caparisoned elephants, camels, and blooded horses to add variety.

There will be fifty of the most famous male and female gymnastic stars of America and Europe flying from end to end of the mammoth arena. There will be widely contrasted feats of horsemanship, fifty clowns, numbering some of the world's most famous jesters, seventy solo acrobats, and the famous original Dixie Land Jass band, there will be many examples demonstrating supreme achievements in animal training. There will be magnificent poses by snow white equines as motionless as marble statues, a triple menagerie embracing the most complete and comprehensive animal revue ever assembled, together with hundreds of beautiful horses garnered from the best stables of two continents.

The street parade will leave, the show grounds promptly at ten a. m. on the day of exhibition and is declared to be over one and a half miles in length.

NOTHING BUT GOOD THINGS SAID

If all the good things said about John Robinson's Ten Big shows this season by our exchanges are true and we have no doubt they are, the amusement-goers of Clearfield and its environs can look forward to an unusual treat in the circus line on Saturday, June 16th.

According to reports this will undoubtedly prove the most important circus event in local history. These augmented shows require four trains of double length railroad cars to transport the mammoth aggregation from city to city.

The unusually large number of wild animals in the menagerie and the additional wonderful collection of interesting people and curiosities from many lands in the museum department, make all former circus exhibitions here seem pigmy in comparison.

So, here's to circus day! A bright weather day it is hoped, when the decision to pitch its tents in Clearfield on June 16th will find ample justification in a smashing record turn out.

The big street parade will take place at 10 o'clock on the morning of the exhibition.

New York Central Railroad Conductors Narrow Escape From A Bed of Sickness

"I can do a big days work now without getting tired, where before I could hardly drag around and I am glad to recommend Goldine, as it did me a world of good," said James Farrell who holds a responsible position as conductor on the New York Central railroad.

MR. FARRELL WHO LIVES IN CLEARFIELD FURTHER SAID

I suffered from kidney trouble for several years and the doctors said I fainting spells and would have to be taken home and would be in bed for two or three days before I could get out again and then I would be so weak I could hardly get around, and I had doctored with nearly every one I knew in town but never got any better.

Some said I had Bright's disease and others said I had pleurisy and I got worse right along.

A friend of mine told me to try Goldine and I got results right off the reel and I could feel my stomach getting stronger every day.

Now I can eat most anything in the eating house and have a good appetite and my kidneys are as strong as iron and I don't have one bit of trouble with them. I can sleep good all night and get up rested and hungry for breakfast.

AMERICANS AT THE FRONT

(By United Press)

London, June 12.—It generally

takes two bullets to stop an American.

Thomas St. Ledger, of Springfield, Mass., so scarlet headed they called him "Red" from the star, was bowled over at Lens but it took a bullet thru his leg to send him to England on a stretcher.

He got that at Vimy Ridge, where the American flag waved in the smoke of battle. St. Ledger served nine years in the 23rd and 3rd United States Infantry. He's hungry for more bayonet work and swears his surrel top will be seen in the thick of it again before peace arrives.

I washed my clothes today and they dried in about 1-2 hours so you know how hot and dry it is here but it is healthy after you get acclimated. My cold is gone, also my catarrh, maybe for good.

How do you like the Progress? Send me a few stamps, one cent ones, because they are hard to get here unless we go down town, also plain cards, but just 3 or 4 each letter. I got some from Clearfield. Almost every one is broke. I have 25 cents but we get paid soon. We will have no trouble about mail now because it will follow the infantry but always put Company E on and tell any one who writes to do the same. John, Rowles, Hess and I are in same company, but some of our friends are in Company I. We don't go to church but some times have bible class meeting in camp. We have several fights back of the camp to settle our disputes and break monotony.

SIMPLE COMMENCEMENT AT WELLESLEY

(By United Press)

Wellesley, Mass., June 12.—The commencement week exercises which began at Wellesley college today will be Spartan in simplicity, because of the war and the necessity for economy. By unanimous agreement of the girls of the graduating class the senior play, the garden party and other social functions and festivities that are almost as old as the college itself, have been cut out of the program.

Frank Isbell is president and Bobby Wallace manager of the Wichita team. A slant at the Western league team standing will show how the two old big timers must suffer.

Juries in various cities of Iowa have refused to convict ball players for pastime on the Sabbath. An effort is to be made to have the Iowa legislature repeal the law prohibiting Sunday baseball.

Perhaps it is only a coincidence that Vernon is running backwards in the Pacific coast league race, and that Fred Snodgrass is playing second base for the team.

No minor league in the country has anything on the Western association in the way of furnishing a tight pennant chase. The eight teams have been racing along with only a hundred points separating the first and last outfits.

SOLDIERS' LETTERS

The Progress is in receipt of a letter from J. A. Adams, now at Madison Barracks, New York in which he states that he has been receiving The Progress every day and enjoys it very much. Mr. Adams does not know who is sending it and wants us to express to his benefactor his appreciation.

The following young men of the West Side M. E. Sunday school are now among the boys upholding the honor of the stars and stripes: Bruce A. Robb, Archie Thomas, Miles Thomas, Forest Root, Elmer Cole, Maynard Shaw, Howard Hooven, Ward McCracken, Verne Harry, Lex Miller, James Withrow, Ward Shaffer and Charles Evans.

The following is another letter from Beryl Read, the popular president of C. H. S. senior class. Mr. Read writes a very interesting letter and we are glad to pass them on to his many High school friends:

Company E, 64th Infantry

El Paso, Texas

June 2nd 1917.

Dear Folks at Home:

There is great rejoicing in camp today. We got our mail from Fort Slocum and among it John got a large box of candy and a box of popcorn from C. H. S. English class. I got 6 letters and the pictures which you sent. We also were assigned to our regular company and infantry. This is final and wherever the 64th is sent we go. Had things remained and the 16th stayed here I would probably have been a corporal but the lieutenant who was drilling us left with the 16th. We said that they went to France. We don't know as much of the war as you do. We don't get any papers except old ones or El Paso papers which don't even know we are at war. I see that some papers have the registration list called honor roll. I would call it "slackers defense." If I was back home and know what I know now I would join at once but I do hope our regiment is sent north because the people down here don't think much of a soldier. The national guards who camped here last summer spoiled a uniformed man.

I saw more than one tear shed when we went thru small towns on our trip. I suppose they had sons in the service. One old man came down to the train with a large silk flag. He said "God bless you and our flag," and the tears ran down his face. He served in the Civil war.

We moved around so much that the cooks couldn't get much to eat so we have had war rations but I think we will be all right now. I am glad that Monroe Young is going. The field artillery is a good place but they have long, hard rides on gun caissons or horse back beside caring for horses. We see heavy artillery, armored cars, etc. I saw a train load (2 engines) of field artillery go by. The government has about 3,000 trucks here, all heavy trucks. Thirty soldiers and outfits can ride at once in them. The roads here are asphalt and almost level.

I washed my clothes today and they dried in about 1-2 hours so you know how hot and dry it is here but it is healthy after you get acclimated. My cold is gone, also my catarrh, maybe for good.

How do you like the Progress? Send me a few stamps, one cent ones, because they are hard to get here unless we go down town, also plain cards, but just 3 or 4 each letter. I got some from Clearfield.
